The Rapture: Don't Get Caught-Up in It

by — De L. Trefethen

LOGIC:

Trumpets in the old covenant were associated with Israel.

THUS:

Trumpets in the new covenant are associated with Israel.

THEREFORE:

The trumpet of I Thessalonians 4 is associated with Israel.

AND:

The last trump(et) in I Corinthians 15 includes Israel.

LIKEWISE:

The seven trumpets of Revelation are associated with Israel.

In Scripture, trumpets announce some prophesied events, i.e., Jesus returning to Earth to rule with a rod of iron as King of kings and Lord of lords (I Thessalonians 4:16), and at the consummation (I Corinthians 15:24, 28).

Isn't logic fun!?

The last trump of I Corinthians 15:52 is mistakenly identified as the same trumpet in I Thessalonians 4:16. These two events are many years apart.

EVERYTHING that we read in the new covenant Scriptures aligns with prophecy and the earthly kingdom. NONE of the new covenant Scriptures are about the One Body of the Secret Administration revealed in Ephesians and Colossians.

This is where we, as unashamed workers, need to partition correctly Paul's new covenant letters (i.e., his Acts epistles) from his Secret Administration letters (i.e., his post-Acts epistles) for the One Body and our celestial allotment.¹

I suppose the confusion comes because there is mention of a resurrection at each event. The resurrection of I Thessalonians 4 is when the resurrected saints and the surviving saints of the great tribulation (at the end of Israel's Pre-Millennial Kingdom²) are snatched up (continued on page 8453) to “meet” the Lord in the air when He descends from Heaven. The resurrection of I Corinthians 15 is at the consummation, when death will be abolished.

With “fresh-eyes” observation, note that the event of I Corinthians 15:51-54 includes ALL of the resurrected dead and those who are alive at the consummation, ALL of whom will be “changed” to have immortal bodies since death will have been eliminated.

Yet in the I Thessalonians 4 passage, there is NO change in the bodies. I know that some say there is a change from mortality to immortality, but that is insinuating something that is NOT there because they combine these two resurrections in error.

In I Corinthians 15 we do see a change that will take place.

Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory (:51-54).

Reading I Thessalonians 4:16-17,

For the Lord Himself will be descending from heaven with a shout of command, with the voice under “Compilation.”

of the Chief Messenger, and with the trumpet of God, and the dead in Christ shall be rising first. Thereupon we, the living who are surviving, shall at the same time be snatched away together with them in clouds, to meet the Lord in the air. And thus shall we always be together with the Lord.

There is NOT one mention of corruptible putting on incorruption in this passage. NO! We DON'T see it because it's NOT there.

As a side note, there is also NO mention of those saints being rushed off to the celestial sphere. Why? Because the passage is in regard to kingdom saints whose inheritance/allotment is the Earth.

The saints in the I Thessalonians passage are raised in mortal bodies, NOT in immortal bodies. Whereas those at the resurrection of I Corinthians 15 are raised in immortal bodies. When? At the consummation,³

The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death. ... then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, “Death is swallowed up in victory” (:26, 54).

Does God's Love Ever Fail?

Bible Student's Courses

Course 1: GOD / Unit 3: The Love of God / Lesson 10: Does God's Love Ever Fail?

by — Mark D. Vogt

Love never fails (I Corinthians 13:8).

Key Points:

God's love cannot be measured.....8454
 God's love for us will NEVER FAIL!.....8454
 God's love cannot be earned or lost.....8458

He gave us His Own Beloved Son to prove to His creation the depths of His love.....8458

God gives us circumstances in our lives as a backdrop to teach us about Himself and His loving kindness for us. One of these things He uses is our relationship to our parents, and more specifically to our fathers. Now, it is recognized that not all people have a loving relationship with their earthly fathers. Rare is it to have a father-son/daughter relationship that serves as a great example of God's relationship with ourselves, but they are out there. Yet, regardless, all know what such a relationship should be.

God's love cannot be measured, and His love for us is in no way dependent upon anything that we do in return. We cannot do anything that will make God withdraw His love from us, nor can we do anything that will make God love us even more. His love is entirely dependent upon Himself, and what He chooses to do – and He chooses to love mankind.

This brought Paul to the inevitable revelation that God's love will never fail.

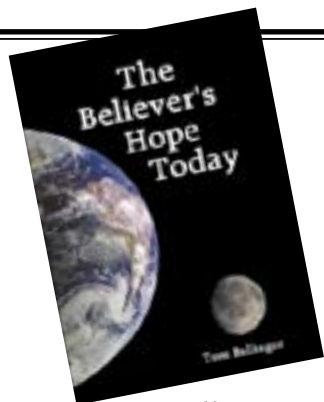

Love never fails (I Corinthians 13:8).

The issues of inadequacy that are present in such relationships are a result of our fathers being human, and as such they are in the same situation that plagues all of us. This is the result of the fact that we are all dying and therefore have a difficult time understanding and appreciating His love. Even in the best examples of a father-son/daughter relationship there is only a hint of the great love that God has for all.

Think of that for a minute, or an hour, or an entire day. What a glorious thing to contemplate – God's love for us will NEVER FAIL! (For that to happen He would have to change His Own intrinsic, eternal nature which is: love perfected!)

The Believer's Hope Today

by — Tom L. Ballinger

This is a look at the believer's "blessed hope" at Christ's appearing as contrasted with "the hope of Israel" in the Acts period. It will show that the hope about which Paul wrote in I Thessalonians 4 and I Corinthians 15 is found not only in the Old Testament Scriptures, but was taught by Jesus Christ in His earthly ministry in Matthew 24 and other places. It also reveals our hope for today as found in Paul's latter epistles.

Tidbits of Truth #62

“Tidbits” is a column dedicated to short comments, thoughts, studies and excerpts.

“Shepherds,” not “Pastors”

[To: D.S.:] The English word “pastors” appears but once in the King James Version of the New Testament: Ephesians 4:11. How strange that such a prominent position as “pastor” within Christianity has but a solitary appearance in the entire New Testament.

Yet, a quick survey of 20 translations readily accessible around my desk reveals that 6 have “pastors” in Ephesians 4:11, and 14 have “shepherds.”

Of course, the actual Greek word that Paul used was ποιμήν (poimēn, G4166, SEC), which is defined as “shepherd.” An example of a previous translation of poimēn is found in Luke 2:8,

And there were in the same country shepherds

Therefore, it should seem apparent that the English translations that render the word “pastors” in Ephesians 4:11 are inaccurate.

Interestingly, the Greek word used by Paul, poimēn, is actually found 18 times in the Greek Scriptures. In the King James Version it is translated “shepherd(s)” 17 of those times, and yet only once as “pastors.” Sadly, the Concordant Version simply follows suit, translating it “shepherd(s)” 17 times, and “pastors” once. Thus, the Concordant rendering of “pastors” in Ephesians 4:11 is simply discordant. Nevertheless, other literal translations – such as Rotherham’s, Young’s, Diaglott, Derived, exeGesés, LSV and MLV – correctly render poimēn as “shepherd.”

The God of All Comfort

by — Hannah Whitall Smith (1832–1911)

Hannah Whitall Smith was the author of the famed A Christian’s Secret of a Happy Life, first published in 1875. She was an influential author of “higher life” and “holiness” movements. Her books have been published by dozens of publishers over the years.

Remarkably, Smith would eventually come to see and embrace the salvation of all, with which came remarkable clarity in her ensuing works, The God of All Comfort being the most noteworthy.

This work offers many beautiful insights concerning God. This carefully edited and abridged edition should bring joy and encouragement to the hearts of many.

“Hannah Whitall Smith ‘got it.’ I appreciate her insight and words.” – PA

“The precious comfort that Hannah Whitall Smith shared in her writing builds up faith and confidence in our Father’s love for us in a very tender way.” – IN

“Hannah Whitall Smith hit a homerun! The God of All Comfort breathes with God’s breath and His wisdom. No doubt her insight came through deep trials and suffering. Father took her to a place that transcended man’s religion, doctrines and creeds. Her chapter, “Sources of Discouragement,” is one of the best things on depression I’ve ever read.” – SD

Also, as an important side note, the sheep/flock/fold/shepherd metaphors all belong exclusively to Israel, and are all now in abeyance, along with God's once favored nation.

— Clyde L. Pilkington, Jr.

“Heirs” / “Inheritance”

“Heirs” and “inheritance” are common translations in the King James Version and other English versions. Yet these are weak English words to convey the meaning of the Greek words being translated.

Κληρονόμος (klēronomos, G2818) and κληρονομία (klēronomia, G2817) are both from the Greek root κληρος (klēros, G2819) which is accurately translated “lot” on occasion in the KJV (Matthew 27:35; Mark 15:24; Luke 23:34; John 19:24; Acts 1:26; 8:21). Klēronomos has to do with “(... partitioning, that is, [reflexively] getting by apportionment); a sharer by lot ... by implication a possessor” (SEC), is “one who receives by lot ... one who receives his allotted possession by right of sonship ... one who has acquired or obtained the portion allotted to him” (TGL). Thus, a more accurate translation of these words would be “allotees” (or “enjoyers of an allotment,” “allotment enjoyers”) and “allotment” (or “allotment enjoyment”) as found in the Concordant, Dabhar, and Derived translations.

— Clyde L. Pilkington, Jr.

“So Great a Death”

(II Corinthians 1:8-10)

[To G.B.:] Paul's expression, “so great a death” is not a reference to eternal conscious torment. Context is always key. Isolated verses can be used to “prove” just about anything. In this passage Paul is talking about suffering, and about the circumstances of dying horribly as a martyr. Note carefully the context of the two verses leading up to :10.

For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of our TROUBLE which came to us in Asia, that we were pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that we DESPAIRED EVEN OF LIFE: indeed we had THE SENTENCE OF DEATH in

Evaluating Western Christianity's Interpretation of Biblical Polygamy

by — Lauren Heiligenthal

88 pages (see order form under “Other Authors.”)

This book demonstrates that the popular Western worldview regarding marriage affects biblical interpretation. While most Western societies uphold monogamy as God's ideal form of marriage, a number of other cultures practice polygamy. Western Christianity often perceives polygamy as a threat to the monogamist ideal; therefore, this book evaluates whether the Bible clearly advocates that polygamous men should become monogamous through divorce.

After interpreting Scripture through the lens of the biblical audience, this book then applies the interpretations from the five biblical texts to a modern situation involving polygamy. Since there is no biblical text that explicitly prohibits polygamy or promotes monogamy, this book argues that the interpretation of the monogamist ideal tends to derive from one's worldview rather than the Bible.

ourselves, that we should not trust in ourselves, but in God Who raises the dead: Who delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we trust that He will yet deliver us.

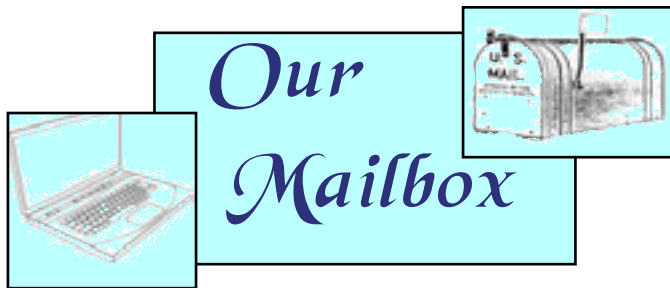

Paul knew that, even if he died a horrific martyr's death, his trust was “in God Who raises the dead.” Yet at the time of writing II Corinthians, he rejoiced that he HAD BEEN delivered “from so great a death,” and was AT THAT TIME being thus delivered, and trusted that God would CONTINUE to “yet deliver” him and Timothy from Martyrdom (1:1).

You shall call, and I shall answer You; You shall long for the work of Your hands.

God will not give up on His work. His work is precious to Him. It is precious to Him because all came from Him (Romans 11:36). God did not create us out of nothing, but created everything out from within Himself.

All is out of Him, all is through Him and all is to Him (returning to Him; Romans 11:36).

Since this is true, how could God ever cast away any of His children? For He would be casting away part of Himself! Therefore, none of His offspring, flawed as we all are (and this is by His design), could ever lose the love that God has manifested toward and for us. (By "children" it is meant every man, woman and child ever born.)

If God took His love away from any one of His created ones, then that would indicate not only a flaw in Himself, but would constitute "sin" on His part.

Remember the definition of "sin"? Sin is to miss the mark or miss the target. God missed the mark? No! Christianity's view of God, as is with all religions, believes that God's love has to be earned, and once earned that love can be lost if the adherent doesn't comply with all of the requirements that their particular system dictates.

Yet God's Word, when rightly divided for the Administration of Grace in which we live, teaches otherwise.

For in grace, through faith, are you saved, and this is not out of you; it is God's approach present, not of works, lest anyone should be boasting (Ephesians 2:8-9 CV; cf. Romans 11:6).

God loves us – all of us – and He will never take away that love. He gave us His Own Beloved Son to prove to His creation the depths of His love (Acts 2:23; II Corinthians 5:21). What more could He have done to prove the sincerity of His love (cf. II Corinthians 8:8)? BSN

Will We Escape Death?

by — Clyde L. Pilkington, Jr.

The plight of humanity is mortality and death. In every age the believer's hope has always been resurrection from the dead and the glory which lays beyond. It was Satan who first introduced the idea, "Thou shalt not surely die." So, what makes anyone think that Satan was right – that we are actually not going to die? What makes someone expect that, of all of the people who have ever lived before them, they will somehow be the ones who will escape death? The answer, in one word: tradition.
